The fact that these two men were made trustees on so many important transactions is a great compliment to their business integrity and acumen. That they should have died so quickly the one after the other will make much work for the Chancery Court, Judge Wm. A. Moneure, and the makers of the deeds of trust.

The complication is serious, but the law has, of course, provided a remedy, though a costly one. In every case in which default is made in the payment

J. S. Wiley, of New York, Addresses Telephone Society of Richmond on Problems of Service.

The regular monthly meeting of the Richmond Telephone Society was held at Stieff's Hall, on West Broad Street, at Stieff's Hall, on West Broad Street, last night. The principal address of the evening was made by J. S. Wiley, general auditor, New York Telephone Company, of New York City.

Mr. Wiley told the local telephone people some very interesting things about the telephone business, and his address was one of the most instruc-tive ever delivered before the Tele-phone Society. Other addresses were made by P. O.

Coffin, auditor of receipts, New York Telephone Company, New York; F. H. Kenworthy, auditor of receipts, the Chesapeake and Potomac Telephone Company, Baltimore; J. R. Y. Savage, auditor, the Chesapeake and Potomac

Telephone Company, Baltimore, and S W. Whittlesey, of New York City.
The meeting last night was "auditor's night" as all the speakers were from the auditing department of the various Bell companies.

Despite the fact that the local telephone people have been working day and night to clear up the recent storm damage, an unusually large number of employees turned out to hear Mr. Wiley Alexander Graham, division auditor of receipts, Chesapeake and Potomac Telephone Company of Virginia, is president of the society, and presided over the meeting last night.

The Right Clothes-The Right Store --- The Right Prices

Clothes, like men, are individualized by character; the higher the character, the better the clothes, and it is the high character of Burkmade clothes, the high quality of the fabrics, the tailoring, the finish, the fit which individualizes them as Clothes of Character. Selling such clothes, and absolutely no other kind, individualizes this store as the Right Store for any man seeking clothes of the right character which alone can assure lasting satisfaction, and the Burk system of "Direct to Wearer" selling, without agents' profits, insures Clothing Values which
